THE reported rupture between His Excel. lency Li Hung-chang, Viceroy of Chihli, and to deny, on the best authority, certain rumours the Imperial Government is flatly contradicted by the Tientsin correspondent of the N. C. Daily News. He does not, however, was carrying out the object with which he came deny that the Government of Peking are annoyed at the persistence with which the on the Kuldja question. Beyond the interest Viceroy has urged the maintenance of a which lie has always taken in China as the scene pacific policy towards Russia. The Imperial Council of State are as yet unable, it seems, to grasp the fact that the arms and munitions of war acquired by China during the last few years do not necessarily place heron terms of that there is practically no peace party left, and equality in strength with Western Powers. They know that vast sums have been spen upon the purchase of gunboats, guns, and party any longer must bring him into direct torpedoes, that extensive arsenals have been established, that the troops havebeen armed with new and improved rifles, and that many the lesser of two evils, preferring a war with Hongkong, is published in the Gazette:of them have been drilled by European in- Russia to civil war. When, therefore, His Excellency Li looks freezingly upon the forces of China and calls them issufficient to grapple with Russia, it is hardly surprising Chinese Embassy in London, has officially as where the seedings will remain, for 60,000 more, object in writing was to point out the grave that his colleagues at Peking are somewhat impatient. They know little of the deficiand munitions of war, with an almost inexhaustible quantity of the raw material out of which soldiers are fashioned, there should be no great disparity between China and her Russians, should have been forced by the Chi- fature plantations, as probably many kinds of the advantage on her side. the North is of a more hopeful character. Whether it is considered that the prospects of the Marquis Tasna succeeding in his as an Assistant-Superintendent of the Civil be greatly advanced by the co-operation of Chinese, negotiations at St. Petersburg are improved. or whether that functionary has privately received instructions to concede all that is necessary to ensure a pacific solution of the difficulty between the two countries, we are unable to say. Certain it is, however, that among the natives a more sauguine view of the position is taken than was formerly adopted. At the same time preparations for war are being pushed on, for fear of eventualities, and it must be conceded that the situation is still very uncertain. In fact, until the result of the negotiations undertaken by the Marquis Tseno be known, it will be impossible to say that the danger of war has passed over. We can only hope that the Marquis will be met in a spirit of concession by the Russian Ministers, and that they will not manifest a desire to push matters too far. The Russian Government know that they are better prepared for the conflict, and it may suit their purpose to provoke it. Had Lord BEACONSFIELD remained in power until now they might have found it prudent, for their own sakes, to meet China half way and patch up the present quarrel as best they could. But circumstances alter cases, and they may not unreasonably conclude that the Government which is in such a terrible hurry to retire from Cabul at the sacrifice of the national prestige, if not the honour, of England, will not be ready to accord China anything but the strictest neutrality in any war in which she may engage, and would hardly be likely to arrest the hand of the spoiler, if, after conquest, he stretched it

TINGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PONTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Angle Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service CONQUEROR, American ship, Gould .- Borneo this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have to late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given. for the above Company at Honorone, Canton, principle hitherto attained. The typography Herman Lehnkuhl, Norwegian ship, S. Troye.

WISE & Co. of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of Schellhass & Co. 118 space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charactorized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the JAMES SHEPHEED, British bark, Madden. following facts are submitted for consideration :— Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as [20] many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respec the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives Agents for the above Corporation, are themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. SIR DAVID BREWSTER'S ILLUSION When Sir David Brewster was writing the second of his letters on "Natural Magic, he found, upon glancing at a candle in another part of the room, that he could see an image of it through the top of his head. The image was quite distinct, and as perfect as it it had been reflected from a piece of looking-What could it be awing to? It was evidently reflected from a perfectly flat and polished surface. The eye-brow and the eye-lashes were searched for it. The polished surface could not be found, and the philosopher was driven for a short time to the most uncomfortable conclusion that crystallisation was proceeding within the humours of theeve. This supposition was so unbearable that he set himself down to examine the phenomenon experimentally. He found that the image varied its place by the motion of the head and of the eyeball, or occupied a place where it was affected by that motion. Upon inclinding the candle at different angles the image suffered corresponding variations of position, and in order to determine the exact place, he now took an opaque circular body and held it between the eve and the candle till it eclipsed the the image twice changed its inclination. spot was the source of annoyance discovered. It was a small bit of wax, about the hundredth part of an inch in diameter, which had lodged between two eye-lashes, a little while before, when he was breaking the seal of letter. He examined the chip of wax, and found that it was quite competent to produce the effect that had been observed, and there was no doubt whatever that it was the reflector. - From " Science for all" for June.
